The Making of a Socialist. Someone has said that fools learn from experience, and wise men from observation and reflection. If this be correct, it is to be feared that the dictum of Carlyle as to most people on these islands being found in the former category has a good deal of truth in it. Certainly, with regard to political and economic ...

Histories of British socialism are nothing new, with classic studies in the field going back to G. D. H. Cole. Mark Bevir's new book, however, comes from a slightly different perspective, in that it focuses on the "making" of British socialism in, broadly, the final quarter of the 19th century. It has been argued that British socialism is not really a fixed and definitive thing but ...

Friedman's conception of decision-making in socialism, like that of the WSM, consists of two elements. The first is the proceedings of elected councils at various levels, supplemented by procedures of direct democracy such as referenda.

Decision-making in socialism: how to meet needs?

Socialism, social and economic doctrine that calls for public rather than private ownership or control of property and natural resources. According to the socialist view, individuals do not live or work in isolation but live in cooperation with one another. Furthermore, everything that people produce is in some sense a social product, and everyone who contributes to the production of a good is entitled to a share in it.

A key element in its success is the way the Chinese inserted themselves into the global market (capitalist) on their own terms, gradually, and making use of very protectionist conditions (socialist). There are several examples of very well balanced mixes in democracies too: Germany, Scandinavia, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Canada.

Pragmatism should be the dogma, not capitalism or socialism

A. Lee asks if "Rewilding" is just a way for capitalism to sell us stuff. Well, yes and no. The origins of the word are in ecology, but in capitalism's drive to market new products, companies have latched onto the word "rewilding" as the latest desirable thing. In recent years there has ...
